

The Institute for Food and Resource Economics (ILR) offers a research assistant position at the coordination office of the international Master's programme in Agricultural & Food Economics (AFECO) for 8 hours per week, starting at the earliest possible date in 2025

We offer:

- Experiences in the coordination of an international Master`s programme
- An intercultural working environment
- Flexible working hours

Your tasks:

- Function as study buddy for the new AFECO intakes, before and upon their arrival
- General administrative support to the AFECO programme coordinator, including: organization of the AFECO week and of the AFECO excursions; processing of applications to the MSc AFECO
- Maintenance of the AFECO social media channels (e.g. LinkedIn)

Your profile:

- Experience in planning and organizing events
- Good knowledge of social media and content management
- Excellent speaking and writing skills in English are compulsory
- Working knowledge of German is necessary
- Independent and proactive work attitude, reliable and responsible

Applications to this position should be sent to: afeco@uni-bonn.de with "AFECO RA position" in the subject line. Only applicants who are already enrolled in a Master program at the University of Bonn will be considered. Dead line for application: as soon as possible, until the position is filled.

You can find more information on the AFECO Master's program here: www.afeco.uni-bonn.de.